

MST Therapist - Working with Families and Young People

Permanent, 37 hours per week

Salary - £32,798 - £35,336

Mold (some home working available)

Successful applicants will receive training in the Multisystemic Therapy (MST) Family Integrated Transitions (FIT) Model which uses evidenced based interventions to address the specific issues and contexts of young people returning home from care. This will be the first team in Wales to undertake the MST-FIT programme and is an incredibly exciting opportunity.

Applicants need a degree level qualification in either a health, social care or related field and experience of working with families in the community.

You will work intensively with a caseload of 4-6 families, typically in their own homes and community, providing interventions under the direction on clinical supervisor and MST expert/consultant, providing out of hours and flexible contact including being part of an on-call 24/7 rota within a small team, there is also an element of home working. Remuneration will be offered in line with the Council's policy and is in addition to the salary indicated.

You will have excellent communication skills, show commitment and resilience to working with complex and challenging situations with a keenness for personal development.

The appointed post holder will receive an initial 5 day Multisystemic Therapy Specialist Orientation training and additional MST-FIT training. Further follow up training is delivered on a quarterly basis alongside weekly group supervision and weekly telephone consultation from the MST expert assigned to the UK programme and ongoing clinician development.
